Company overview

Since 1987, AWM has been developing, engineering and manufacturing high-technology machines for reinforcement steel processing. AWM's machines find application in various fields: steel processing centers for the production of reinforcement elements, precast companies, large construction and road-building companies.

AWM's broad experience in the industry is also key to provide customers with engineering guidance from the very early stages in order to achieve the best solutions in terms of investment, logistics and production needs.

Products / services / business lines

AWM is active in the development, engineering and manufacturing of high-technology machines for reinforcement steel processing, namely:

- Equipment for tunnel reinforcement processing
- Equipment for concrete precast companies
- Machines for wire, welded mesh and lattice girder production
